

Synova Healthcare Group, Inc. (OTC BB: SNVH)

Synova Healthcare Group, Inc., incorporated in 2003, engages in the development, distribution, marketing, and sale of women's healthcare products. The company offers contraception, vaginal health, menopause management, fertility planning, obstetrics and personal care products designed to deliver a meaningful difference in healthcare management for women throughout every stage of their reproductive lives.

Synova's products include Today® Sponge, a non-hormonal contraceptive device that combines barrier and spermicidal methods to prevent conception; Fem-V™, a non-invasive diagnostic test designed to assist women in detecting the presence of elevated vaginal acidity, often indicating a vaginal infection; and MenoCheck® and MenocheckPro®, which are in-home and in-office non-invasive diagnostic tests used to detect and diagnose the onset of menopause. The company distributes and sells its products to retail customers through drug stores, grocery stores, and other retail outlets, as well as through medical supply companies.

Synova has also continued to focus on its portfolio of products currently under development, including the company's antepartum fetal monitor, which continues to progress through clinical studies and is expected to be the first non-invasive, portable and disposable fetal activity detector and data recorder, as well as an innovative at-home fertility monitor and a novel OTC product for the treatment of hemorrhoids, all of which are expected to be introduced for commercial sale within fiscal 2008.
